THE DOG TEAM .- We saw an odd looking turn- reserve to a future occasion. For the present we sans in the contest, and we therefore make the folout on last Thursday morning in front of the Post Office, in the shape of a pair of big black dogs, harnessed to a sort of waggon wherein was seated a man, selling pocket calendars, upon the merits of which he was holding forth to the great amusement which we heartily commend. There is a want of exof the congregated multitude, and the manifest disgust of his canine steeds, who lay down in harness, measure. Upon the whole, we trust that the perfor. stantinople; the combined fleets were in the Bosand showed their ivories at the little niggers. The mances may be as good as the promises, and that next time we saw the equipage, it was rushing round the corner of Front and Market, at a two-forty pace, with a whoop and a howl, and a bark and a growl, as if the dogs thought that the game was foul, and would willingly make their dinner off the legs of some black little sinner; or if urged to go any faster, would turn round and eat up their master. The legitimate use of dogs is to hunt, and to worry both niggers and hogs; but harness a canine as you would a hoss, and he waxes exceedingly snappish and cross; but it must be confessed, that on a dead level, these dogs can travel ahead of the shall "suffer no check during" his "official term, if (Printer's) devil.

The Navy of the United States, it is conceded, must ever constitute the most important arm of its physical force, with the extensive scaboard and vast commercial interests pertaining to the country. The ocean is the great highway of American enterprise, and with almost every other nation, in case of war, it must prove the field upon which the issue of battle will be decided. It is of the utmost importance, therefore, that the Navy of the United States should possess the greatest efficiency that can possibly be attained. Whatever may be the number or the THE ENGLISH TREATY .- The Washington corres. size of our ships of war the first thing to be considered, is their efficiency. The plans and processes devised by the Secretary of the Navy, modified and improved as any of them may be, at the suggestion of experience, seem to us admirably adapted to impart to the Navy of the anxiety and pre-occupation of the British Cabinet by United States a degree of efficiency, not only far superior to that it now possesses, but proportionateis real, personal, absolute. In his affidavit, Mr. S. swears that in the early part of the present year being afflicted with severe pain in the breast, he was induced to visit the house of Seymour, then in Davidson street, and subsequently to 491 Houston street, for the purpose of consulting the wife of Seymour who by a sign on the front door and by eards, and by words spoken, professed to be a clairvoyant and while in that state to be able to prescribe efficient remedies for the cure of diseases. That he frequently visited the house and for each consultation with Mrs. S., paid her $1, and for the medicine she prescribed he paid to her husband, who procured it, from one to three dollars per bottle. That during these visits, Mrs. S. by her responses and acts, invited liberties to be taken with her person by him, gradually and artfully leading him on, as he now perceives and believes, with the view and design-though he was not conscious of it at the time-of getting him into such suspicious and equivocal situations as would enable her and her nusband-who, he believes, was conspiring with her for the purpose-to extort money and other property from him. That on the night of the 19th of May last he was at the house, when Mrs. S. informed him that her husband had gone to Boston; she then gave him a night-key to the front door of the house, and invited him to visit her the next night, saying That on the following night he visited the house, when she repeated to him what she had said the previous night relative to her husband's absence, and by her "seductions, advances and caresses," induced him to visit her room, and while both were partially unrobed, she suddenly gave a signal by Bro; with naval stores, &c. slamming the door three times, when her husband immediately rushed into the room with a drawn sword cane in his hand, and struck him violently upon the Martin; with 124,000 feet lumber. head, and stabbed at him several times, and threatened to murder him unless he would pay him money terloh. heretafore; but the steamer of the 16th may carry or its equivalent, and refused to give him up his clothes until he had consented to transfer to him a house and lot which he owned on Sixteenth street, Harriss; with 1,218 bbls. tar, 292 do. pitch, 850 do. rosin. which he subsequently did transfer. THE NEW YORK HOTELS. -Contrary to general expectation, our city hotels still continue to remain overflowingly full. The places of thousands who have left for the South, have been instantly taken by permanent guests for the winter; and the table Photes are as crowded, and the drawing rooms as gay, as at Saratoga in July. The landlords, it is not necessary to add, are making fortunes. The proprietors of the " Metropolitan," we understand, show a clear profit of one hundred and twenty thousand dollars in their first year's business. The New York, the St. Nicholas, the Astor, and the Prescott House, are equally prosperous .- N. Y. Mirror.
